

- 1) Churchyard - there has been a setback as we have identified Hemlock in the area where the new sitting area is being prepared. We consulted with the church and they have decided to get professional help to deal with it before we can proceed. Trees have survived the drought but the area is very overgrown and how we manage it all will be reviewed. It was proposed and agreed that the bench be made from locally sourced timber with the help of a local carpenter. The timber is being chosen this week.
- 2) The Verge - The verge has "gone to seed" which is exactly what we want it to do. We are trying to leave it alone to let the seeds drop and to allow birds to feed from the seed. We will continue to manage it.
- 3) The Tump - We watered the trees on and off during the drought and they have survived! We plan to transplant some daisies onto the Tump from the Verge and add some more tough herbaceous perennials that may out compete the docks.
- 4) Fun Day - We had a very good stall at the Fun Day which was admired by the Trustees and Pavilion committee. There was a plant stall- we gave away wild flower plants - and jars of wild flowers for identification information and to show how much was growing in the dry weather. It was very successful for community engagement. We gave our small amount of takings to the Trustees for the fund raising.
- 5) 6th September meeting - We met to catch up and review our projects. We decided to try to maintain the projects we have undertaken and not to do more at this stage until the church yard is resolved and we can complete that project. Dan Hodgkiss from Going Wild came along to meet us.
